Miramonte High School senior Nick Coufal (left) and junior Samuel Shain stand in front of the first hydration station installed on campus Nov. 15 - the first ever within the Acalanes Union High School District, according to Shain. "It was installed for a variety of reasons: easier water bottle fill up, limit the amount of plastic water bottle waste (in just one week we've conserved over 300 plastic water bottles from being discarded), hydrate students on campus, and to provide a healthier beverage choice," he said. Coufal and Shain were involved in the process of proposing and implementing the hydration station on campus. "We are also very grateful for the endless support of our school's administration," Shain added.
