Council considers 6th Cycle Housing Element Environmental Impact Report, focuses on evacuation routes

By Lou Fancher

As part of the 6th cycle Housing Element—which outlines potential development of the Regional Housing Needs Allocations—of 2,114 units assigned to Lafayette, including a buffer bringing the total to 3,095, the Lafayette City Council is required to certify a final draft Environmental Impact Report to provide an in-depth analysis required by the California Environmental Quality Act (CEQA) and address the impact of development projects under policies in the Housing Element. At its Aug. 4 city council meeting Lafayette Senior Planner Renee Ahlborn, who was joined by housing consultant Dana Eide, Luke Jones of SEA, and Ellen Patis, a traffic consultant with Fehe & Patis, presented to council members an update and review of the draft EIR...continued on Page A3

Intergenerational dialogue inspires learning & growing in Lamorinda

By Sharon K. Subotta

An intergenerational crowd of about 40-50 Lamorinda community members came to gather in the Lafayette Learning Center on July 27 to talk, learn, share and grow. Lynnie McPhatter Harris, editor at the time for the evening by inviting people to join in the conversation with their neighbors and friends, talking about what they can do for the community as a whole to make it a more inclusive place that values diversity, equity and inclusion. “We can’t paint our stories,” Eide added, “of 2,114 units assigned to Lafayette, including a buffer bringing the total to 3,095, the Lafayette City Council is required to certify a final draft Environmental Impact Report to provide an in-depth analysis required by the California Environmental Quality Act (CEQA) and address the impact of development projects under policies in the Housing Element.
